Dear Editor/ Proofreader

First of all, I do apologize for the late response. That is due to my effort to clarify some content errors in the recent proofread version because I sent the wrong file to Ms. Merissa just before proofreading started. As a result, essential and important inputs from the 2nd reviewer (code 78) had been mistakenly aborted.

Several revisions that were mistakenly aborted include:

1. Footer of Table 2
2. Definitions of in silico PCR
3. Migration some part of initial results to material and method section
4. Limitation of this study
5. As consequences of points 2 and 4, some more references should be added.

Hence here I am trying to repair the mistake by putting back revisions from the 2nd reviewer (point 1-5) along with all proofread revisions that I have made in the last two weeks (including correct name of authors and institution) in the attached paper.

So, Please find the latest version attached here.
Thank you and again I apologize for this inconvenience.

Best Regards,
